

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

For several years past I have been interested in the history of the early generations of our family, who, by endless toil and years of privation, have assisted to cut from the forests and dig from the swamps the country of which we are so justly proud.

While we are enjoying the results of their labors, their memory is fast fading away and sinking in the darkness of oblivion.

Time is swiftly blotting from the records those whose memory we desire to perpetuate, and their history would be lost forever if not soon gathered from the fast disappearing pages.

As time has passed, family ties have grown more and more uncertain, and it has been a great task to gather the matter together from church, public and private records, and connect them in their proper order.

It has been my design to collect the records of our ancestors and their descendants, and present them in such a manner that they may be preserved and transmitted to posterity.

I have labored many months trying to make this volume as near correct in every particular as it is possible to make it at this time, and the records in the following pages are probably nearer perfection than they can be made by future generations.

It is a matter of painful regret that a more complete record of the early generations of the family cannot be obtained.

So far as the matter contained in this volume is concerned, I consider it very reliable, as the early names and dates are taken from original sources, and the later ones were supplied by those living at the present time. Much information of the same character has been found on many different records situated many miles apart, thus making indisputable evidence of its truth.

The attention of the reader is directed to the "Old Style" and "New Style" dating. The "Old Style" dating was in use previous to 1752. In 1751, the English Parliament passed an act, which took effect in 1752, establishing January 1st as the beginning of each year, instead of March 25, adopting the Gregorian, or "New Style," instead of the Julian, or "Old Style" calendar, and canceling the then existing excess of eleven days by making the third of September, 1752, the fourteenth. All dates preceding 1752 correspond with the "Old Style" and beginning with 1752, they correspond with the "New Style."

The preparation of this volume has been a pleasant task. The new acquaintances which have been made and friendships which have been formed are in themselves compensation for the work performed.

In the preparation of a volume of this character it could not be performed without assistance from others, and I desire to make acknowledgment to the following persons who have assisted in the collection of records: To Mary Lancaster-Best, of Angola, Ind., for her untiring interest and zeal in collecting records of numerous branches of the family and assisting the writer in various lines of the work; to Ellwood Roberts, of Norristown, Pa., for information contained in Part V, and also for the use of several half-tone engravings from "Old Richland Families"; to Elias H. Lancaster, of Pleasantville, Md., for extracts from the Friends' records in Harford County, Md.; to Howard M. Jenkins, of Gwynedd, Pa., for much of the information contained in Part II; to Mrs. Hannah Lancaster-Wagner, of Toughkenamon, Pa., for information contained in Part VI; to Charles Stokes, of Beverly, N. J., for many items in Part IV; to John L. Longstreth, of Philadelphia, for many facts contained in Part VIII; to Livius A. Benedict, of Stantontown, O., for much of the information contained in Part X; to Edward H. Hance, of Philadelphia, for many facts contained in Part XI; to Edwin R. McCarty, of New York, and Wilson Spencer, of Galva, Ill., for many items embodied in Part XII; and to many other members of the family who have forwarded records of their respective branches.

Should this volume prove a source of profit and pleasure to the reader, and help to establish the exact degree of relationship existing among those who are descended from the same ancestor, the labor of the author will have been abundantly rewarded.

Very sincerely yours,

HARRY FRED LANCASTER,

COLUMBIA CITY, INDIANA.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

LANCASTER.

The Anglo-Saxon name, Lancaster, had its origin in England, and all persons bearing this name trace their ancestry to that country, being in all probability, descendants from the same family.

If the reader will examine the map of England, in the western part of Lancashire, a few miles north of parallel 54 degrees, the River Lune will be found flowing through Lancashire from the north-east and emptying into Lancaster Bay. About seven miles from the mouth of this river, on the left bank, will be found the city of Lancaster, the birth-place of the name.

The city of Lancaster was the site of an old Roman camp or fortress probably about the fifth century, or before the arrival of the Angles and the Saxons. The remains of the old Roman fortress antedating the castle, and inscribed altars, tombstones and pottery, are evidence that it was a Roman station of great importance.

Chester, cester and caster, dialectic forms of the Anglo-Saxon ceaster or caestor, are characteristic suffixes which mark sites of Roman occupation.

The Anglo-Saxon word ceaster or caestor, is derived from the Latin word, castra, (a camp or fortress.)

Lancaster (Anglo-Saxon, Luneceaster) is the 'ceaster' on the Lune, formerly the Alauna, whence the name Ad Alaunam, as the old Roman station at Lancaster was called. It will thus be seen that Lune camp, or fortress (Lunecastra or Luneceaster), became Lancaster, as we now use it.

Lancashire indicates the shire or county of Lancaster and was formed into a county Palatine from Blackburnshire, Salfordshire, Amounderness and Furness, for the Earl of Lancaster, in the twelfth century.

The first person to bear the name of Lancaster, of whom we have any record, was William de Taillebois, Baron of Kendal, the Governor of Lancaster castle in the reign of Henry II, about 1180, who assumed the surname of Lancaster and dropped "de Taillebois." (See Note I.) William de Taillebois was a descendant of Ivo de Taillebois, who went to England about the time of William the Conqueror, and the supposition is that he is the ancestor of all persons bearing the name of Lancaster.

There are many families in America bearing this name, whose ancestors came from England at different periods, but after making a thorough investigation, the writer is unable to find any relationship existing in this country between the descendants of Thomas Lancaster and the numerous families of this name, other than those mentioned in this volume. The connecting links would no doubt be found in England if we were able to trace the various pedigrees.

CHAPTER II.

THE FRIENDS AT RICHLAND.

The religious Society of Friends occupies a prominent position in the history of the Lancaster family.

Not only were the early members of the family in America members of this Society, but we find the name Lancaster appearing on the records in England from the earliest history of the Society.

The Society of Friends (commonly known as "Quakers") is a body of Christian professors which arose in England about the middle of the seventeenth century. From their first appearance they suffered much persecution, and in 1631 they were forbidden to assemble for religious worship under penalty of fines, imprisonment and banishment.

On account of the persecutions in England, many of the Friends came to America and settled largely in the New England and Middle States, especially in Pennsylvania (Penn's Woods), which colony was founded by William Penn, a noted minister in the Society.

Many of the Friends settled in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, in the vicinity known as the "Great Swamp," in 1710, and as they had previously belonged to various monthly meetings located at some distance from their new homes, they held their meetings at the homes of the settlers or visited their respective meetings, making the journey on horseback.

Many of the Friends were members of Gwynedd Monthly Meeting, of Montgomery county, and finding it a great distance to travel to attend their meetings, they obtained permission from Gwynedd Monthly Meeting to hold Richland Preparative Meeting in 1721.

In 1723 a small meeting house was erected on the road to Philadelphia, about a mile from the present site. On account of the increase in numbers, it became necessary to build a new meeting house in 1730, which was built on the present site. The land was leased from Morris Morris, and in 1759 he deeded ten acres of land to the meeting. The meeting house was then in the center of the settlement, but the town has since grown toward the east, so that it is now located at the western extremity of Quakertown, by which name the town is now known. In 1742, Richland Monthly Meeting was granted by the Gwynedd Monthly Meeting, and in 1749 an extension was made to the meeting house. It was again enlarged a few years later, and in 1802 it was torn down and the present house erected the same year.

Among the early members of Richland Monthly Meeting were many of the ancestors of those who became connected with the Lancaster family by marriage.

What was once a wooded meadow covered with water and swamps is now occupied by the flourishing city of Quakertown. The city receives its name from the early inhabitants many of whom were Quakers. Its former designation, "The Great Swamp," has long ago disappeared, but the name of "Richland Monthly Meeting" remains unchanged. The exact time when the town began to be called Quakertown is unknown, but it was probably about the time of the Revolutionary War.

But a small portion of the present population are Friends, and many other denominations have sprung up and built churches. From a hamlet of a few houses, it has grown to a town of over three thousand inhabitants, and its well paved streets and sidewalks bear no trace of the "Great Swamp" of two centuries ago.

There are numerous industries located in the town employing hundreds of men, and the product of some of these industries is shipped to various parts of the United States. Many of the old dwellings erected by the early settlers are still standing, but the old home of Thomas Lancaster disappeared many years ago. Since their earliest existence the Society of Friends has kept a complete record of their various transactions, also a record of their members, with dates of births, deaths, marriages and removals, which are still preserved, and are a marvel of accuracy, to which we are indebted for much of the information concerning the early generations of the family to be found in the following pages.

CHAPTER III.

THOMAS LANCASTER.

Among the early settlers in Pennsylvania was John Chapman, who, with his wife and family, emigrated to America in 1684 and located in Wrightstown Township, Bucks County. Previous to 1684 he had resided in Yorkshire, England. He joined the Society of Friends and married therein Jane Saddler, in 1670. By profession he was a surveyor. He was the largest landowner in Wrightstown Township, and before his death in 1694, he had acquired at least one half of the lands of that township.

John and Jane Chapman were the parents of several children; their second child, Ann, was born the 18th of the 3d mo. 1676, and died in 1732-3. She became an esteemed minister in the Friends' Society. She began to travel in the ministry in 1706, and made several religious visits to England with approval.

Upon her return from England in May or June, 1711-12, after one of such gospel journeys, she brought with her Thomas Lancaster, a youth about nine years of age, who became the ancestor of those mentioned in this volume. The writer has been unable to ascertain the names of the parents of Thomas Lancaster, although a diligent search has been made in all records, in England and the United States, that would likely contain the information desired. (See Note II.)

Of his early life in Bucks County we have no information.

On the 19th of the 8th mo., 1725, he married Phebe Wardell, in the Wrightstown meeting of Friends. She appears to have been a resident of Wrightstown at that time. It is the first recorded marriage on the records of Buckingham and Wrightstown meeting of Friends, and their certificate shows the names of forty-two witnesses. (See Note III.)

Phebe was a daughter of John Wardell, a native of Wales. He was a minister in the Society of Friends, and came with his daughter, Phebe, to North America, and settled at Boston. He afterwards removed to Wrightstown, Pennsylvania.

Phebe is said to have been a beautiful woman, bright and intelligent. Thomas and Phebe Lancaster were both ministers in the Society of Friends. They resided at Wrightstown until about 1740, when they removed to Richland Township in Bucks County, which brought them within the verge of Gwynedd Monthly Meeting of Friends. The minutes of that meeting, 25th of 3d month, 1742, state that "Thomas Lancaster produced a certificate for himself and wife from Wrightstown monthly meeting, giving a good account of their lives and conversation and edifying ministry, which was read and well received." On the establishment of Richland Monthly Meeting, in 1742, they became members of that Monthly Meeting. On the 19th of 2d month, 1750, Thomas Lancaster obtained permission of the Richland Monthly Meeting to pay a religious visit to Friends on the Islands of Barbadoes and Tortola in the West Indies.

Peter Fearson, of Burlington, New Jersey, also obtained liberty from his Meeting for a similar service.

In July, 1750, in company with John Bringhurst, a member of Philadelphia Meeting, they sailed for Barbadoes Islands, which they reached the latter part of August or the first of September.

John Bringhurst seems to have been in declining health. As appears by certificates from the Meeting on Barbadoes Island, dated 6th of the 7th mo., 1750, the service of these ministers was acceptable to the Friends there.

On the 30th of the 7th month, the death of John Bringhurst occurred. Soon after his death. Thomas Lancaster and Peter Fearson obtained passage to Tortola Island, where they labored fervently, as shown by certificates granted by the meeting held there on the 19th of the 8th month, 1750.

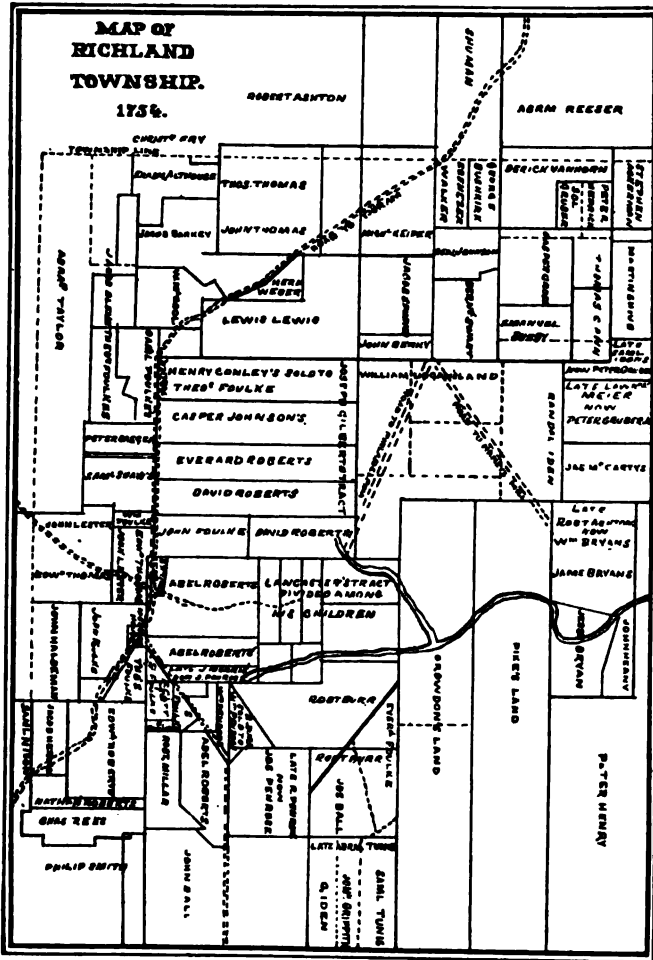

As their work was completed on the Island they took passage homeward.

The health of Thomas Lancaster had become impaired by the climate on the Islands, and he died on his way home and was buried at sea. (See Note IV.)

The "Collection of Memorials" of deceased ministers and others, printed by Joseph Cruikshank, Philadelphia, in 1787, contains the following testimony from Richland Monthly Meeting, concerning Thomas Lancaster:

"About ten years of the latter part of his time, he was a member of this meeting. He was sound in the ministry, and exercised his gift therein with great fervency and zeal, his life and conversation corresponding therewith.

In the second month 1750, he laid before our meeting his concern to visit friends on the Islands of Barbadoes and Tortola, which the meeting approved of, and gave him a certificate in order thereto. Towards the latter end of the same year he performed said visit, and had good service there, as appeared by certificates from Friends on each of the said islands.

From "Old Richland Families," by Ellwood Roberts.

On his return homewards it pleased Divine Providence to visit him with sickness, of which he died at sea; his removal being deeply felt and lamented by his family and friends at home."

Thomas Lancaster owned a farm of 480 acres, which he purchased March 16, 1741. It was located about one mile east of the Friends' meeting-house at Richland, now Quakertown. Tohickon Creek and Muddy Run flow through the farm, and Licking Run empties into Muddy Run a short distance from where the old house formerly stood.

The western half of the farm is now included within the eastern limits of Quakertown.

After the death of Thomas Lancaster the farm was divided into eleven tracts, as shown by the diagram of the farm on another page.

Benjamin Roberts owned part of the tract which has been cut up into town lots, and Penrose, his son, owns the lot on which the old house was located. Benjamin Roberts erected a new dwelling near the site of the old home of Thomas Lancaster, but nearer the road which leads from Quakertown to Newtown.

On the 17th of the 10th month, 1752, Phebe, widow of Thomas Lancaster, was united in marriage with Samuel Thomas. We have no record of his death or of any children.

On May 4, 1757, Phebe Thomas married John Titus, of Hempstead, Queens County, New York, as shown by the records of Wrightstown Monthly Meeting.

He was born at Westbury, Long Island, 5th month 28, 1698, and died 5th month 28, 1757, only twenty-four days after his marriage to Phebe Thomas.

His will was made at Westbury, February 16, 1757, and a codicil was added 5th mo. 17, 1757, in which his wife, Phebe, is mentioned. From the witnesses to the codicil it appears that he died of small-pox. John Titus had been married previously to Sarah, daughter of George Pearsall, who died 1st month 28, 1753, leaving six children, the youngest of whom was born 1st month 8, 1743.

Phebe Titus married as her fourth husband, — Way, of Long Island. The date of this marriage is unknown to the writer, but as her name appears as Phebe Way on the marriage certificate of her son, Aaron Lancaster, her marriage to Way must have taken place prior to that of her son's, which occurred on the 17th of the 9th month, 1767.

After the death of her last husband, she returned to Richland and spent the remainder of her life with her son, John Lancaster, at the old homestead, where she died in her ninety-sixth year.

The children of Thomas and Phebe Wardell-Lancaster were:

CHAPTER IV.

HISTORY OF THOMAS, THE ELDEST SON OF THOMAS AND PHEBE WARDELL-LANCASTER AND HIS DESCENDANTS, FROM HIS BIRTH TO THE PRESENT.—TWICE MARRIED.—EACH FAMILY SHOWN SEPARATELY.

THOMAS, the eldest son of Thomas and Phebe Lancaster, was born at Wrightstown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, the 16th of the 12th month, 1727.

After the death of his father in 1750, he was appointed administrator of the estate, he being then of age. (See Note V.)

On the 15th of 12th mo. 1757, Thomas and wife took a certificate to the Gwynedd Monthly Meeting, and his name frequently appears on the minutes of Gwynedd Monthly Meeting for several years, as appointed on various committees.

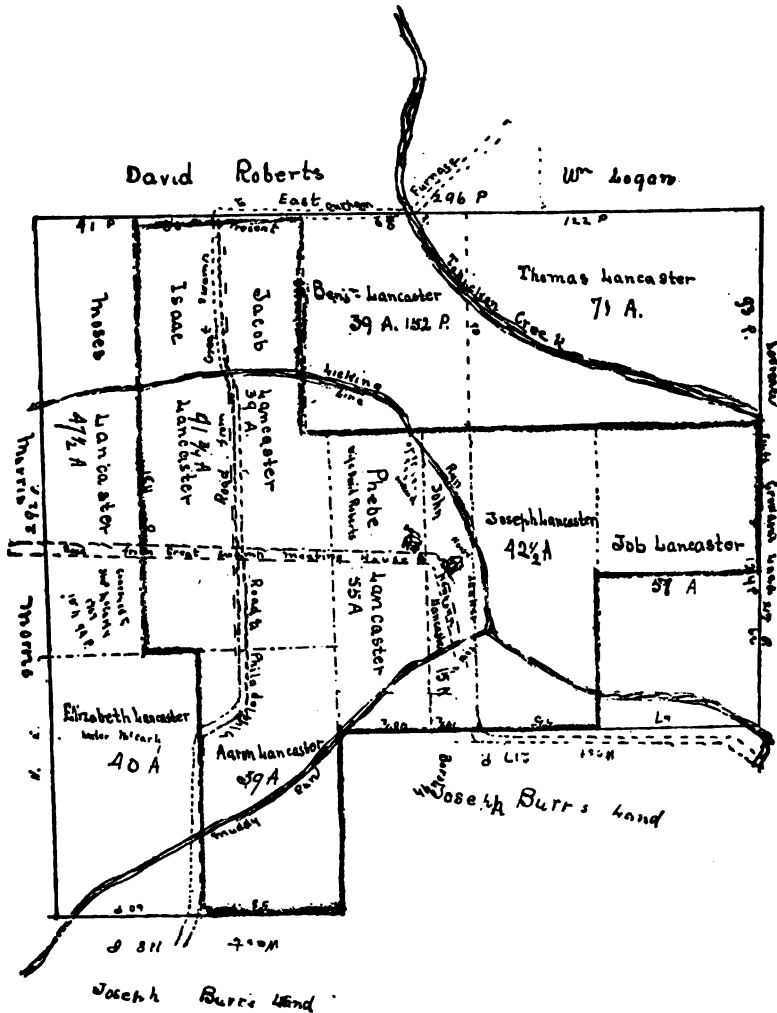

On the 30th of 5th mo. 1769, he was appointed overseer of the Plymouth Meeting.

Thomas Lancaster died January 27, 1808. He was married twice, and for the convenience of the reader each family will be shown separately.

On the 20th of 1st mo. 1752, he married Sarah Buckman-Taylor, widow of Benjamin Taylor, and daughter of William and Esther (Penguite) Buckman. She was born the 15th of 3d mo. 1718, and was a granddaughter of William Buckman, of Sussex County, England, who came to America in the "Welcome" with William Penn, in 1682.

To the union of Thomas and Sarah Lancaster was born one son, THOMAS.

Farm owned by Thomas Lancaster, at Quakertown, Pa., showing location of buildings and the allotments of his children after his death in 1750. The part included within the heavy lines was owned by John Lancaster, son of Thomas, at the time of his death.

CHAPTER VII.

HISTORY OF BENJAMIN, THE FOURTH CHILD OF THOMAS AND PHEBE WARDELL-LANCASTER, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

BENJAMIN LANCASTER was born at Wrightstown, Bucks County, Pa., 12th mo. 31, 1731. He married Rachel Barlow, whose parents had emigrated to America from Wales. She was born 3rd mo. 3rd, 1728, and died 3rd mo. 5th, 1813. She was buried in the Friends' burying ground at Little Falls, Harford County, Maryland. Benjamin received thirty-nine acres of land as his share of his father's estate. There is no record showing how or when he conveyed his allotment of his father's real estate, but it was the property of Jacob Freed at the death of the latter in 1785. In December, 1822, he purchased a tract of land in Bedminster township, on which he resided until 1761, when he sold it and shortly after removed to Maryland. He settled in the northeastern part of Harford County in the vicinity of Deer Creek Monthly Meeting of Friends.

On the records of Deer Creek Monthly Meeting under date of 2nd of 6th mo. 1768, we find that Rachel Lancaster, wife of Benjamin, was received on a certificate from Richland Monthly Meeting, dated 2nd of 5th mo. 1768. In 1770 Benjamin removed his family to the southwestern part of the county, near the Gunpowder Monthly Meeting. At a meeting held at Gunpowder

3rd mo. 27, 1771, Rachel Lancaster attended that meeting with a certificate from Deer Creek, recommending her and her four children, Jesse, Joseph, Benjamin and Nathan, to the Gunpowder Monthly Meeting, dated the 29th of 11th mo. 1770. We have no record of the death of Benjamin and the best account we have of him is contained in the manuscript of Rachel Lancaster-Benson, a granddaughter of Benjamin and Rachel Barlow-Lancaster, shown in Note IX of this volume. Benjamin and Rachel Lancaster were the parents of six children :

JESSE, see Chapter VIII.

ANN, see Chapter IX.

BENJAMIN, born 2nd mo. 28, 1756; died 7th mo. 1760.

JOSEPH, see Chapter X.

He was married three times. His first wife was Constance Malsby, who died without issue. In the minutes of Gunpowder Monthly Meeting under date of 8th mo. 26th, 1772, we find the following record concerning the marriage of Jesse Lancaster and Constance Malsby: "Jesse Lancaster having gone out in marriage, this meeting appoints Oliver Mathews and William Parrish to produce some lines in order to testify against that practice." Under date of 9th mo. 23, 1772, in the above minutes, we find the following: "The paper being produced in order to testify against Jessie Lancaster's outgoing in marriage, which was put in the hands of William Bull in order to be read at the close of a first-day meeting at Little Falls: Whereas, Jesse Lancaster had a right among the people called Quakers, but hath gone out in marriage with one not of our Society, which practice we testify against and disown him, the said Jesse Lancaster from being any longer a member of our Society until he comes to a sight and sense of his misconduct and condemns the same to the satisfaction of this meeting, which that he may is our desire. Given forth from our Monthly Meeting at Gunpowder 23rd of 9th mo. 1772."

At a Monthly Meeting held at Gunpowder 26th of 5th mo. 1773, "Jesse Lancaster attended this Meeting and offered a paper condemning his outgoing in marriage, which is by this Meeting received: 'Whereas I, Jesse Lancaster, having gone out in marriage disagreeable to the rules of the Friends, and having broken good order in so doing, for which I am sorry, and sincerely desire that the Friends may pass it by and receive me again into membership, is the sincere acknowledgment.

(Signed)

JESSE LANCASTER."

At the same meeting, "Constance Malsby-Lancaster having for some time been under care of the Little Falls Meeting, and agreeable to their request, she is now received a member of this Meeting."

"Whereas, Joseph Lancaster hath had a birthright among friends, but for want of knowing a true establishment on the sure foundation, hath erred so far as to accomplish marriage with one not in profession, by the assistance by a priest, for which breach of good order we testify against him and disown him, the said Joseph Lancaster from being any longer a member in unity with us, the people called Quakers, until he condemns the same to the satisfaction of this meeting. CHAPTER XIII.

HISTORY OF JOHN, THE FIFTH CHILD OF THOMAS AND PHEBE WARDELL-LANCASTER, AND HIS DE- SCENDANTS.

JOHN, the fifth child of Thomas and Phebe Wardell-Lancaster, was born at Wrightstown, Bucks County, Penn., 12th month 10, 1733. He removed to Richland with his parents and appears to have resided at the old home of his parents until his death, February 26, 1791. He married Elizabeth Barlow at Gwynedd Monthly Meeting of Friends, 11 month 15, 1753. Elizabeth was probably a sister to Rachel Barlow, who married Benjamin Lancaster. She died December 11, 1796, aged about 67 years. After the death of his father, John Lancaster received fifteen acres of land as his allotment of the estate. The house was located on this tract. He appears to have purchased the allotments of several of his brothers and sisters, as he had acquired title to more than half of the original farm at the time of his death. He inherited the religious disposition of his father and was an approved minister in the Society of Friends and a member of Richland Monthly Meeting. John and Elizabeth Lancaster were the parents of five children:

She was a daughter of Arents Klincken, who came from Dalem, near Cresfield, Holland, in 1683. George and Abigail Williams settled on a farm near Cheltenham, Montgomery County, Penn., in a primitive home, but they afterwards erected a handsome stone house which is still well preserved. He was the third child of John and Hannah Stogdal Stokes and the great grandson of Thomas and Mary Barnard Stokes, who came to America from London, England, with their three children, aboard the "Good Ship Kent," in 1677 and settled at Burlington, New Jersey. Thomas and Mary Barnard Stokes were members of the Society of Friends and were married in London Monthly Meeting in 1668. In 1784 David and Ann Lancaster Stokes settled in their new home situated on the north bank of the Rancocas River, near the northwest corner of the original township of Willingborough, in what is now the township of Beverly, about one and one-half miles from the mouth of the Rancocas River. The farm is now owned by Isaac Fenimore, adjoining lands of Edward Hunter on the west and George Conover on the east. They resided on the farm until 1798 and all their children were born there. After the death of John Stokes, father of David, he removed, with his family, to succeed his father in the occupancy of old "Stockingham," the original homestead of John, son of Thomas and Mary Barnard Stokes. During his vigorous manhood the Colonies were in the exciting throes of the American Revolution, and he was numbered among the ardent patriots, notwithstanding the principles of the Friends were such that they could not be practical patriots nor disloyal Tories. His love of political and religious liberty he inherited from his whole line of Stokes ancestors. David and Ann Lancaster-Stokes were buried in the Friends' Graveyard at Rancocas, New Jersey. At the age of eighteen he became established as the land surveyor of his neighborhood, a profession which he followed until the time of his death. At the age of ninety years he surveyed a tract of land, of many sides, containing one hundred and fifty acres, and when he returned home he expressed himself as "having had just enough exercise to give him an appetite for his supper." He married Tacy Jarrett, daughter of William and Ann, October 18, 1816, at Abington Monthly Meeting of Friends. He erected a large brick mansion on a tract of land containing about one hundred acres, adjoining the land reserved to "Old Stokingham" on the north, which he received from his father. and his large mansion was the Mecca for Ministering Friends on all occasions, among them being many of the prominent members of the Society, Elias and Edward Hicks, and others. (See Note XIII). CHAPTER XXVII.

HISTORY OF JOSEPH, THE EIGHTH CHILD OF THOMAS AND PHEBE WARDELL-LANCASTER.

JOSEPH LANCASTER, the eighth child of Thomas and Phebe was born at Wrightstown, Penn. 8th month, 21, 1738. It does not appear that he was a member of Richland Monthly Meeting, within whose limits his parents removed when he was a small child. On July 25, 1760, he presented a certificate to Philadelphia Monthly Meeting of Friends, which was issued by Wrightstown Monthly Meeting in Bucks County. On June 26, 1772 he left Philadelphia and seems to have been living in the State of New York. On August 30, 1776, a certificate was sent from Philadelphia Monthly Meeting to Nine Partners Monthly Meeting in Dutchess County, New York, where he then resided. He was unmarried at the time the certificate was given. On February 19, 1777, the marriage of Joseph Lancaster and Mary Soule-Shearman, a widow, was reported to Oblong Monthly Meeting, as having been accomplished. The exact date of the marriage is not known, but it occurred not more than thirty days prior to the above date. A committee was appointed 1st month, 9, 1777, 'to see that the rights of the widow's children are secured.' In the first register of Oblong Monthly Meeting, page 7, we find that Mary, daughter of George and Avis Soule, and Joshua, son of Ebenezer and Wait Sherman, were married 8th month, 10, 1757. On page 111, of above records, we find: "Joshua Sherman, minister, of Pogh Quaick, died 9th month, 8, 1770, aged 40, minister for seven years." Mary Soule-Shearman was born 3rd month, 31, 1732, and was about forty-five years of age at the time of her marriage with Joseph Lancaster, having been a widow almost seven years. The Oblong Monthly Meeting records show that Joshua and Mary Soule-Shearman were the parents of six children, the youngest having been born one month and fifteen days after the death of its father. There is no mention of any children of Joseph and Mary Lancaster in the Oblong Meeting records and the writer is unable to find any record of any descendants. Joseph Lancaster received forty-two and one-half acres of land as his share of his father's farm and his allotment was owned by his brother John, at the time of the death of the latter.

SECTION III.

AARON LANCASTER BENEDICT, son of Aaron and Esther, was born July 13, 1804, near Lake Champlain, in Peru, Clinton County, New York. Eight years later his father removed to Ohio and settled in an unbroken forest in the southern part of what is now Morrow County. The advantages of pioneer life were few and school privileges were limited, but his intense thirst for knowledge made him a close student, and by continued home study and research, he obtained a liberal education, and gained in later years a fair standing with the men of letters of his time. He was converted at the age of seventeen and often spoke in later life of the christian teaching and counsel that he received from his parents in his youth. In 1850 he was recorded as a minister of the Gospel by Alum Creek Monthly Meeting of the Orthodox Friends.

He traveled extensively among Friends, visiting, in the love of Christ, the churches in Ohio, Indiana, New York, Michigan, New England, and Canada. In his ministry he was earnest, fearless and loving, his words being well chosen, logical and convincing. While engaged in the ministry he was stricken with paralysis of the brain, which three years later resulted in his death, June 25, 1867.

In 1862, he and John Butler, of Damascus, Ohio, were chosen by Ohio Yearly meeting of Friends to visit President Lincoln and intercede in behalf of Friends who might be drafted into the army. They were successful in their mission and members of the Society of Friends were exempt from bearing arms on account of their principles of peace. He imbibed from his parents very decided anti-slavery principles, and having seen in boyhood the protecting care extended to the fugitive from bondage by them, his own home, in later years, became a refuge for slaves seeking a land of freedom. Many hundreds were thus cared for and forwarded on their way. His ready pen and gifts of poetry and eloquence were unsparingly used in advocating the cause of the oppressed African, and anti-slavery papers contained many contributions from his pen.

(See Note XXII.) He numbered among his valued correspondents, William Lloyd Garrison, Joshua R. Giddings, Levi Coffin, Samuel Rhodes and John G. Whittier. A warm friendship with the latter, beginning with the interchange of sentiments, was strengthened into a lasting attachment by a visit to the home of Whittier while traveling in New England. CHAPTER XLI.

HISTORY OF MOSES, THE TWELFTH CHILD OF THOMAS AND PHEBE WARDELL-LANCASTER, AND HIS DE- SCENDANTS.

MOSES, the twelfth child of Thomas and Phebe Wardell-Lancaster, was born at Richland, Bucks County, Penn., 10th month, 3, 1746, and died 6th month, 29, 1842. He appears to have migrated backward and forward between Philadelphia and Richland Township, but he seems to have lived most of time in the latter. He received forty-seven and one-half acres of his father's farm as his share of the estate. He is mentioned in the records as a "sadler." On December 5, 1767, he conveyed fifteen acres of his land to his brother-in-law, Thomas McCarty, and the following spring conveyed the balance in two lots. He married Rachel Lloyd. On May 15, 1769, Moses and Rachel executed a mortgage to Arthur Thomas on a small tract of land just north of the present limits of Quakertown, which was bought of Thomas McCarty on the same date as the conveyance of the fifteen acres to Thomas McCarty. On the 20th of the 6th month, 1771, he took a certificate to Abington Monthly Meeting for himself, wife, and daughter, Meribah. Rachel Lancaster was buried at Richland, 9th month, 20, 1829. (See Note XXIII.) Moses and Rachel Lloyd-Lancaster were the parents of four children:

MERIBAH, who probably died unmarried.

CHAPTER XLII.

MOSES LANCASTER, son of Moses and Rachel, was born January 2, 1783, and died November 14, 1879, being almost ninety-seven years of age at the time of his death, which was the greatest age attained by any member of the family. Early in life he learned the carpenter trade. Philadelphia was then only a large collection of houses, but he foresaw it was destined to be a metropolis. He engaged in the building business and his designs and architectural plans soon gained for him the reputation which enabled him to secure contracts for the erection of many of the principal buildings in Philadelphia, from about 1805 to 1860, an active building period of the city. He erected a large and magnificent dwelling for himself and family on Arch Street, which was greatly admired for its originality in architectural design. He was a prominent member of the Carpenter's Society, and it is said that no other builder was so prominent and influential in building circles during the early half of the nineteenth century as Moses Lancaster. In politics he was a Democrat, with strong anti-slavery sentiments. He deplored human bondage and was a promoter of the Underground Railroad. He was a member of the Society of Friends. He was always interested in educational matters and was one of the most foremost to urge Joseph Lancaster, of England, author of the "Lancasterian System of Education," to visit the United States in 1818 and lecture on the important subject. He married Susan Jordan, August 23, 1806. She was born in August, 1787, and died April 27, 1869. They were the parents of twelve children:

ELIZABETH LANCASTER, the youngest daughter of Thomas and Phebe, was born the 8th month, 26, 1748, and died 7th month, 26, 1806, at Muncy, Lycoming County, Penn. She married Thomas McCarty, son of Silas and Sarah, in 1765. (See Note XXIV.) He was born February 12, 1741 and died October 9, 1804, at Muncy, Penn. They settled in Northampton County, Penn., where all their children were born. Sometime after 1790, they removed to Muncy, where several of their children were established. (See Note XXV.) Thomas McCarty is said to have owned the first "grist-mill" in Lycoming County. The old mill disappeared many years ago to make room for a more modern structure which occupies the same site. The farm was located between Muncy and Clarkstown, near the latter place. It is now owned by the Shipmans. The old log house has been torn away and replaced by a more modern dwelling. Elizabeth received forty acres of land as her share of her father's estate. On April 1, 1775, Thomas and Elizabeth conveyed this tract to William Foulke, together with fifteen acres bought of Moses Lancaster, December 5, 1767. Thomas and Elizabeth McCarty were the parents of eighteen children, all of whom reached maturity.

NOTES.

I.

The following pedigree shows the early descendants of Ivo de Taillebois, from whom the Lancaster family is descended. It is compiled from various English historical and genealogical works.

(1.) IVO DE TAILLEBOIS was the third son of Renfrid Taillebosc, of Normandy, C. 1050, whose issue was as follows:

- I. Ralph Taillebosc, Viscount of Bedford, etc., 1066.
- II. William Taillebosc, of Lincoln, 1066.
- III. Ivo Taillebosc, of Lincoln and Norfolk, 1066.
- IV. Gilbert Fitz Renfrid.

The name Taillebosc, or Taillebois, signifies "Woodcutter."

Ivo de Taillebois is also represented as being a brother to Faulk, Earl of Anjou, France. He was among the followers of Duke William, of Normandy (William the Conqueror, who invaded England in 1066).

He shared in the distribution of lands among the French barons, and received the Barony of Kendal as his allotment of the spoils. It consisted of a large portion of Northern Lancashire and Southern Westmoreland. He also held the Barony of Lincolnshire and Norfolk. He married Lucia, daughter of Ælfgar, and grand-daughter of Leofric, Earl of Mercia, by whom he received all the ancient domains of the family of Ælfgar, thus making him one of the most influential nobles in England in his day. Lucia was a sister to Edwin and Morcar, dukes of Mercia and Northumberland, also a sister to Ealdyth, who married Harold, king of England.

(2.) ELDRED, second Baron of Kendal, married Adigitha.

(3.) KETEL, son of Eldred, third Baron of Kendal, married Christiana.

Their children were:

- I. Gilbert.
- II. William.
- III. Alan.
- IV. Orme, Lord of Seaton, who married Gunilda, daughter of Cospatrick.

(4.) GILBERT, son of Ketel, fourth Baron of Kendal, married Beatrix, daughter of Ribald, of Middlebain, brother of Alan, Earl of East Anglia.

(5.) WILLIAM TA LLEBOIS, son of Gilbert, fifth Baron of Kendal, married Gundred, daughter of William de Warren, second Earl of Surry, and widow of Roger de Newburg, Earl of Warwick.

According to Dugdale, the eminent English antiquarian, he was governor of Lancaster Castle during the reign of Henry II, about 1180. He assumed the surname of Lancaster, which was derived through his connection with the castle of that name.

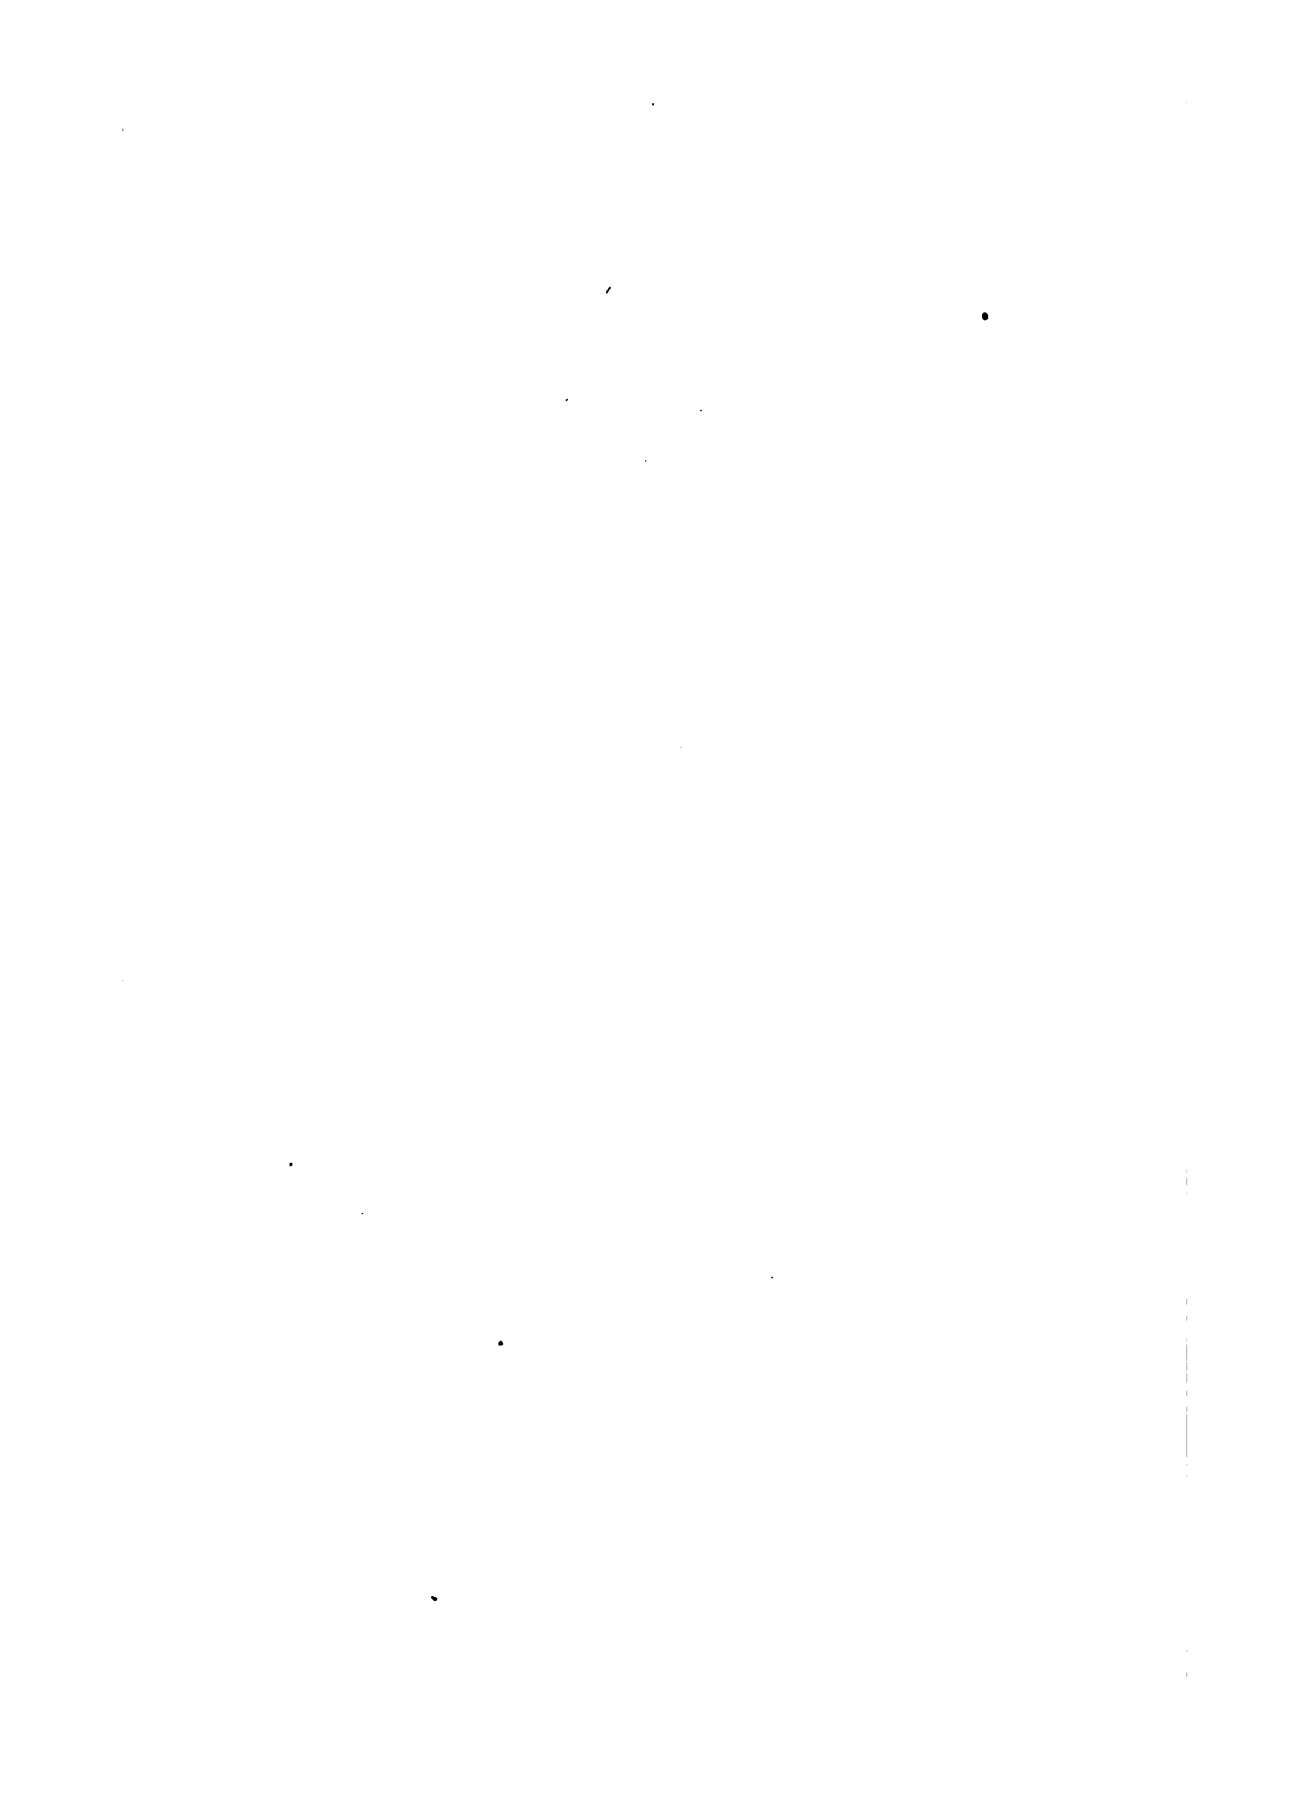

Lancaster.

LANCASTER ARMS:—Argent, two bars gules, on a canton of the second a lion passant guardant, or CREST:—A lion's head erased, argent, charged with a crescent gules.

The original arms used by the Lancaster Family in the twelfth century, without the crest. The crest was used later by the Lancashire and Cumberland County descendants. The charge, a crescent, denoting a younger branch of the family.

II.

Why Thomas Lancaster was brought to America in his youth is a matter of conjecture. It has long been the tradition of the family that his mother was a widow with several children to support, and she probably consented to the emigration of her son to America, knowing he would receive better care and attention here than she could bestow upon him.

The name of Thomas Lancaster is not found on the records of the Friends' Society in England, and it is not known whether his parents were Friends. In the minutes of Warwickshire meeting, reference is made to "Widow Lancaster's children who went beyond the sea."

There are also several entries on the various parish registers in England, but it is a difficult matter to determine whether they have reference to the ancestor of this family. How Thomas Lancaster was related to the Chapman or Saddler families, if at all, has not been ascertained. It is quite probable that he was of the same lineage as James Lancaster, of Walney Isle, companion of George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends.

(See George Fox's journal.)

III.

The following interesting account of the marriage of Thomas and Phebe Lancaster is taken from the records of Buckingham Monthly Meeting of Friends. At the time of this marriage Wrightstown and Buckingham were one meeting, being located about six miles apart. The meetings were held alternately at each place.

"At our monthly meeting held at Buckingham for Buckingham and Wrightstown, the 7th of the 7th mo. 1725:

"At this meeting Thomas Lancaster and Phebe Wardell declared their intentions of marriage with each other it being the first time, the meeting appoints John Verity & John Penquite to inquire into the sd Thomas Lancaster's clearness in relation to marriage & conversation & make report thereof next meeting."

"At a monthly meeting held at Wrightstown for Buckingham & Wrightstown the 5th of ye 8th mo. 1725:

"Att this meeting Thomas Lancaster & Phebe Wardell declared their intentions of marriage with each other it being the second time the sd Thomas Produced a note from the sd Phebe's Parents of their consent therefore this meeting leaves them to their Liberty to consumate their sd intentions according to Truth the meeting appoints John Laycock and John Parsons to see it decently accomplished and make Report to next meeting."

"At our monthly meeting held at Buckingham for Buckingham and Wrightstown the 2nd day of the 9th mo. 1725: The Friends that were appointed to tend the marriage of Thomas Lancaster Report it was decently accomplished."

Marriage certificate of Thomas and Phebe Lancaster:

IV.

Harry Fred Lancaster, of Columbia City, Indiana, has in his possession what are probably the only remaining relics that were once the property of Thomas Lancaster, the ancestor of this family in America. They consist of four pewter plates. Before leaving Tortola Island on his homeward cruise, Thomas Lancaster purchased six pewter plates with the intention of presenting them to his daughter, Phebe, who was then about seventeen years of age. The plates were carried home to the family by the captain of the vessel. They became the property of Jane Roberts-Ashton, daughter of Phebe Lancaster-Roberts, and they eventually descended to her daughter, Sarah Ashton, who died about 1887, at an advanced age. In a letter dated July 18, 1874, to a member of the family, Sarah Ashton gives the history of the plates, and also says she has the plates in her possession "just as good as when they landed in America." After her death, four of the plates became the property of M. H. Eshleman, son of Martin Eshleman, an adopted heir of Sarah Ashton, from whom they were secured by their present owner. The plates are about nine inches in diameter and bear stamps of "JOHN TOWNSEND," "MADE IN LONDON," and several other smaller undecipherable marks.

The following letter and poem was found among the papers of Jane McCarty-Ogden, which evidently was written to Phebe, wife of Thomas Lancaster, on the death of her husband, by Theophilus Foulke, about 1760:

TO PHEBE LANCASTER:

FRIEND—As the virtue is the greatest ornament of human life, so zeal for the promotion of piety and advancement of God's truth in the world is the greatest glory of a Christian. And it is these qualifications alone that renders men truly honourable and worthy of praise in this world.

Now that thy late husband was such I need not say, for that thou undoubtedly knowest by long experience far beyond what I can express, yet considering (the high opinion which I have conceived of his rare qualities, I thought not amiss to penn the following lines as an encomium of his merit and true worth.

Be pleased therefore to accept the truths contained in the following sketches as a slender specimen of my esteem for him:

Bestow your audience, you that love
To hear true merit praised,
Whilst my weak muse in feeble rhyme
Her slender voice doth raise.

To sing the exequies of one
Whose name deserves a place
Among the records of the just,
Whose virtues paths did trace.

Whose Godly life and pious deeds
Deserves to be enrolled
In virtues list in whose defense
He was a valiant, bold.

Who for religion, sacred cause,
Did cross the raging main
Whose roaring billows terrors strike
Where horrors want to reign.

Where waves on waves doth roll aloft,
And gulph on gulph appear,
And claps of thunder threatening
To rend the hemisphere.

THE LANCASTER FAMILY.

With storms of wind, hail and rain,
 Presage of gloomy fate,
 These perils great could in no wise
 His heart intimidate.

Triumphing o'er the seas of wreck,
 His zeal to God was such
 As drew him to the Indies
 To visit there, the church.

Accordingly he guarded was,
 From all those free,
 So incidental unto those
 Who traverse the seas.

His courage dwells not in ambition,
 Pride, nor glory, vain,
 But in the confidence he had
 That God would him sustain.

Aeolus's propitious gale
 Did gently waft o'er,
 Unto the port where he was bound
 From Philadelphia's shore.

Escaping the devouring waves,
 The shore did safely reach;
 Preserved by God's Providence,
 The gospel there to preach.

Where, when arrived he did not spare
 To labor in the church,
 For to reclaim entangled man
 Out of the Devil's lurch.

His weapons were of spirit made,
 They were made both sharp and keen,
 And pity tempered for to bang
 The Sturdy man of sin.

Yet his doctrine like the dew,
 So sweetly did distill,
 Each mournful and disconsolated soul
 With joy did fill.

His exhortations, seasoned with
 Benevolence and love,
 That he was qualified of God,
 Sufficiently doth prove.

His message having there discharged,
 His errand there performed;
 Having well acquit himself,
 Then home wards he returned.

But ere he reachd his native soil
 Pale death did him arrest,
 And summoned him to leave this world
 And enter into rest.

He having fought the fight of faith,
 Which never brings remorse,
 He peacefully resigned his breath
 And finished his course.

Thus died he and offered up
 His soul to God that saves,
 And his remains were decently
 Committed to the waves.

Now in remembrance of this love
 Of his, may I presume
 Here to inscribe an epitaph
 Upon his watery tomb.

Here lies the body of the man
 That was sent forth of God,
 For to reclaim and gather home
 Poor sinners from abroad.

Here lies the body of the man
 Whose mission was to preach
 Repentance to backsliding souls,
 And the ignorant to teach.

And tho' by gravitations lains
 His body sinketh down,
 His soul ascendeth unto God
 There to receive a crown.

A royal diadem to wear
 With saint and angels then,
 To join the chorus of God's praise
 Forevermore, Amen.

The following sketch of Benjamin Lancaster is taken from a manuscript written by Rachel Lancaster-Benson, daughter of Jesse Lancaster, and granddaughter of Benjamin Lancaster. * * * Benjamin (Lancaster), my grandfather, married Rachel Barlow, whose parents came from Wales, and had five children: Jesse (my father), Joseph, Ann, Benjamin and Nathan. They removed to Maryland about the close of the Revolutionary War, I judge, and before any of the children were married.

I cannot tell whether he bought the land, or it was granted to him, however he owned several hundred acres thereabout, made the first improvement at the White House (in Harford County, Maryland) and lived there long after their children left them. Then after my mother died, came and kept house and cared for us and ended their days there. * * * I think my father bought that place. I remember of his having the deed.

I also give to my daughter-in-law, Sarah Stokes, my large arm-chair, the mahogany chairs and large looking glass, all of which are in her possession. To my daughter-in-law, Rachel Stokes, I give one of my mahogany chairs and bureaus; and to my daughter-in-law, Tacy Stokes, I give my high drawers and the articles on them, my small looking glass, carpet, irons and two mahogany

The extract shown below taken from a letter written in 1881, by Charles Stokes, then ninety years of age, will no doubt be of great interest to the reader. The letter gives some very valuable information concerning the relationship existing between Thomas Lancaster, the ancestor of this family, and Joseph Lancaster, the noted English Educator, who came to America in 1818. The letter is evidently carefully compared with notes taken at the time of the interview with Joseph Lancaster. The time of the interview is thoroughly substantiated by the records of the Burlington (N. J.) Monthly Meeting of Friends, which shows that a certificate was received from Southwark Monthly Meeting, of London, for Joseph's wife: "Elizabeth Lancaster, a member of this meeting, having gone with her husband, Joseph Lancaster, to settle in America, we recommend her with her daughter, Elizabeth, aged about 13 years, to your tender care and oversight." The certificate is signed by thirty-three Friends, and dated the 13th of 10th mo, 1818. (See Encyclopedia for biography of Joseph Lancaster). Probably the only discrepancy to be noted in the letter is the mention of Lydia Lancaster as being the wife of James Lancaster. The records of Swarthmore Monthly Meeting, England, of which meeting James Lancaster and wife members shows that the name of James Lancaster's wife was Margaret. The same records give the names of some of their children: Dinah, born 11th mo. 23, 1656; Deborah, born 4th mo. 7, 1660; and Elishah, born 2nd mo. 16, 1664. Among the christenings in the Dalton Parish Register, which included Walney Island, we find: Ismael, son of James Lancaster, of Northscale, was christened in June, 1653. The latter was christened before James Lancaster became a member of the Friends' Society. Lydia Lansaster was a prominent Friend's minister, in England. The Lancaster Monthly Meeting records show that she was the widow of Bryan Lancaster, and died 5th mo. 30, 1761, aged 77 years. It was thus impossible for her to have been the wife of James Lancaster, who died 4th mo. 13, 1660, at Ulvestone, England. If Thomas Lancaster, the ancestor of this family, was a grandson of James Lancaster, he was probably the son of either Ismael or Elishah, sons of James Lancaster. The writer has been unable to trace their descendants. The following letter was written to Mrs. Mary L. Best, of Angola, Indiana, who still has it in her possession:

Ranococas, Burlington Co., N. J.

2d. mo. 1, 1881.

Mary Lancaster Best: A letter written by thee, directed to Moses Lancaster, dated 1st mo. 2d, 1880, within a few days, has been forwarded to me, (by Edward Hance, his grandson, Moses the grandfather, having departed this life,) with a request that I should furnish such information as I have in regard to the genealogy of the Bucks Co., Penn. Lancaster family. I have read thy letter with much interest—perceive striking traits of character which signally distinguish the family—so much so—that I felt quite disposed to address thee as a dear cousin.—Such I recognize thee—and will endeavor to give such information upon the several subjects of thy letter as I possess:

In the year 1818 I met at the home of my parents, David and Ann Stokes, at Ranococas, Joseph Lancaster, of England, (lately arrived) the celebrated author of the "Lancastrian System of Education." He brought with him, one or more letters written by my great-grandfather, Thomas Lancaster, of Bucks Co., Pa., to Joseph's grandfather or great-aunt, who was his, Thomas', brother or sister, thus making Joseph and my mother second cousins. I understand also that Joseph Lancaster's grandfather and Thomas Lancaster's father is the same—and was the son of James and Lydia Lancaster, Minister of the Society of Friends in the days of George Eox,—James visiting America with George Fox,—who had shielded George Fox by interposing his body between the Zealots, who were throwing stones at George. Among those who cast the stones at that time was included Lydia the wife of James Lancaster, aforesaid, but afterwards became an advocate of the doctrine that George Fox preached. Joseph Lancaster made an imposing appearance, was talented, lectured well, professed with friends, plain in costume, claimed to have descended from John of Gaunt. It appears from my memorandums that the Lancaster family came from England, near Warwick. Thomas Lancaster came to America with Ann Chapman at the age of nine years, married Phebe Wardell, daughter of John Wardell, about 1725, died at sea in 1750, aged 48 years, so that he was born in 1702 and arrived in America in 1711.

* * * * *

Thomas Lancaster was a member and minister of Richland Mo. Mtg. in 1744, —was the carpenter in building the Meeting House, as per the Minutes of said meeting. He owned and occupied a farm of about 200 acres, one mile from the Friends Meeting House, at Quakertown, Richland. The North Penn. R. R. passes through or nearby said farm, the depot is here, and many buildings erected. He erected his dwelling house on this farm, and here raised and educated his family. He obtained from Richland Mo. Mtg. a certificate to travel in the ministry and visit Barbadoes & Tartola, dated 2d. mo. 19, 1750. From a book of memorials, I find Thomas Lancaster, on his return, departed this life at sea.

XIII

The following extract from the last Will and Testament of Charles Stokes, at the close of his life, very clearly expresses his views religiously.

"And lastly, with a desire as fervent as could be uttered, were it possible for an affectionate father to speak from the grave, would I enjoin upon all my dear children to be obedient to the teachings of Divine Faith in their own minds in all things, as the only and alone means of securing happiness and true respectability in this life as well as in that to come. This has been the foundation, dear children, as you well know, upon which has been based all the religious instruction which I have felt it right for me to bestow upon you: and, at this moment, when contemplating the final issue of all things on earth as regards myself, I again reiterate it, with a full conviction of its everlasting truth.

Farewell."

The following old letter, written by Israel Lancaster to Amos Roberts, his cousin, may be of interest.

The original letter is among the papers of Amos Roberts, now in possession of Ellwood Roberts, of Norristown, Pa., a great grandson of Amos Roberts.

Richland, 28th of the 2nd mo. 1806.

Esteemed Friend:—I hereby inform thee that I have concluded to purchase thy plantation at thy offer, and the terms by thee proposed, and wish thee to write an article containing the bargain and send it up and I will sign it and thee may enclose it and direct who shall have the keeping of it for us—it will be some time before I can leave home on account of my family, but I expect that will not be material as I expect we understand each other respecting the terms of the bargain. I want thee to sow the cloverseed and I will pay you for it the price thee gave. I have confirmed the sale of my plantation this day with Israel Foulke and he has sold his to A. Dolby, all in expectation of my having thine. If it should be convenient I would like thee to send by the bearer a letter with the article enclosed.

From thy friend and kinsman,

ISRAEL LANCASTER.

P. S.—I insert the terms below:

3,000$, that is 3375 pound.

2,000 first payment.

1,375 pound in two payments.

All the wood and posts for fencing to remain on the place.

At a monthly meeting held at Abington, 10th mo. 27, 1714, the following minute was made: "Whereas Edward Roberts and Mary Bolton having declared their intentions of marriage with each other before two monthly meetings, enquiry being made by persons appointed and found clear from all others on ye account of marriage, did accomplish their marriage in ye unity of friends as is signified by their marriage certificate."

XVI.

The original certificate of Amos and Margaret Roberts, dated 11th mo. 30, 1775, is now in the possession of Ellwood Roberts, of Norristown, Pa. He also has several articles of furniture with which Amos and Margaret Roberts began housekeeping, including a fine old eight-day clock.

XVII.

The acquaintance of Alice Matilda Roberts with J. B. Poree began at the marriage of Pierce Butler and the celebrated actress, Fanny Kemble. The Butlers were neighbors of the Robert family, at Mount Pleasant. J. B. Poree was much the older of the two. In 1807, he was at Norfolk, Va.; in 1808, in Bourdeaux, France; in 1808 and 1809, at Paris, France, where he was received as Vice Consul to the United States, to which he returned in 1810, and located at New Orleans, La.

He was in Boston, Mass., in 1813; in New York City in 1815; and died at New Orleans, May 9, 1819, of apoplexy, about 70 years of age.

XVIII.

Samuel Foulke was a prominent member of the Society of Friends. He was appointed clerk of Richland Monthly Meeting at its establishment in 1742, and continued in that capacity about 37 years. From 1761 to 1768, he was a member of The Provincial Assembly of Pennsylvania. (See "Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography.")

While Seneca Lancaster was engaged in the milling business with David Evans, they loaded a vessel with flour, for export. The ship was captured by the French, and destroyed. David Evans, who was aboard the ship, died, and was buried in the ocean.

Several years ago, money was appropriated to pay for the vessel and cargo, but as the bills and mill books were lost, the heirs were unable to prove their claim.

The following account of the visit of Aaron Lancaster to Old Neck Meeting, was written by Daniel Wood, a minister in the Friends' Society, who married Elizabeth Benedict, daughter of Aaron and Esther (Lancaster) Benedict, and granddaughter of Aaron Lancaster.

A REMARKABLE INSTANCE OF THE FULFILLMENT OF PROPHECY.

We find in the history of the Society of Friends, that its members in the last century, in common with others, held slaves. But this practice, it seems, soon gave uneasiness to some of the more faithful and favored members, who laboured, as they were enabled in the meekness and faith of the gospel, with their brethern to convince them of the evil of holding their fellowbeings in bondage, and their labors at length proved effectual. A rule of discipline was established making slave-holding a disownable offence, and the Society was soon clear of the unchristian and inhuman practice. One of these faithful watchmen was Aaron Lancaster, a minister of the gospel, who, in the exercise of his gift in the ministry, traveled extensively in the southern states, where the practice of holding slaves was more general among Friends than at the north, laboring faithfully and boldly with his fellow-members to show them the inconsistency of their practice with the precepts of the gospel and the profession they were making to the world.

One instance, showing the authority by which he thus labored, I have desired to see before the public,—especially now when there is a great struggle in our beloved country for the overthrow of this iniquitous system of human bondage.

In one of the lower counties of North Carolina there was a meeting called Old Neck, which was a stronghold of slavery. The leading members of this meeting, it appears, had conferred together and adopted the ingenious policy of not disputing with any one on the subject, saying their slaves were their property and they had a right to hold them and would hold them.'

Aaron Lancaster, then on a religious visit in those parts, soon after attended the meeting of Old Neck, where he found it laid upon him by the Divine Master to testify against the sin of slavery, and the unrighteous conclusion of the members of that meeting, repeating their words: 'That the slaves were their property, they had a right to hold them and they would hold them," that it was offensive to the Divine sight etc., and as proof of the truth of what he had said to them, he had a sign to give them, viz: That the house in which they were then assembled would be blown down within a short period of time, which he named. A friend who was at the meeting, and heard the remarkable prediction, told me that as soon as he had finished his testimony he took his hat, without resuming his seat, and went directly out of the house, mounted his horse and rode away.

Soon after, the meeting broke up, and a council was held by its members as to what was to be done. The conclusion was that he was deranged and not fit to travel abroad as a minister, and they would stop him, but as they came out of the house he was nearly out of sight, and riding very fast, and thus escaped their hands. Within the time specified there came a whirlwind and entirely demolished the house. The large timbers were scattered around, not far from the place where the house stood, and, according to the prediction, not one left upon another. The lighter materials were carried to a great distance. One door was found about five miles off, lodged in the top of a pine tree. Soon after this event Aaron Lancaster returned to that neighborhood and finished his visit to the meetings thereaway without interruption, and it was not very long before Friends of that meeting emancipated their slaves. My first information relative to the above mentioned circumstance, was received from some of Aaron Lancaster's children, and was afterwards confirmed by friends living in the neighborhood, who related the circumstance to me while I was traveling under an apprehension of religious duty in the southern states during the years of 1823 and 1824, and was in the vicinity of the place where Old Neck Meeting-house stood. There were friends there alive who had a distinct recollection of Aaron Lancaster and his labors in that country.

Believing it is due to his memory, and the cause of the truth and righteousness in the earth, I am inclined to commit it to writing.

His labors were in accordance with those of the apostles as one of them declared—"The weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of the strong-holds."

May all christians be concerned to act under the same influence believing that He who has begun the work is able to carry it on to its completion and they that trust in the Lord shall not be confounded,

DANIEL WOOD.

XXII.

The following poem was written by Aaron Lancaster Benedict, in 1838, while waiting on the banks of the Ohio River. He had accompanied John Green, alias-Ellaska Young, a fugitive slave, to Ripley, O., to assist him to cross the river and get his wife and young child from bondage. The wife resided eighty miles from the river and the fugitives were a week late in returning to the river. A. L. Benedict rowed the skiff across each night until they came. This expedition so aroused the animosity of the Kentucky slaveowners against him, that a standing reward of $1,000 was offered for his head.

Beneath me, calm and restful roll
The Ohio's pearly, chrystal waves;
Beyond is heard the ceaseless wail
Of tasked and fettered slaves,

THE LANCASTER FAMILY.

Among those hills on yonder shore,
 I see the tyrant's dwelling place;
 And scattered o'er those fields, I mark
 The sable forms of Afric's race.

O! as I view those dark abodes
 Of tyranny, and lust, and pride,
 Where many a weary, friendless slave
 Has toiled, and wept, and bled, and died,

'Tis not in language to describe
 The strong emotions of my soul;
 Where the lorn captive toils and bleeds
 Throughout a weary course of years.

The ground I stand upon is free,
 The very air I breathe is pure,
 There is no taint of slavery here,
 No stripes, no bondage to endure.

But Oh! across that tranquil stream,
 What anguish, and what wrongs are there!
 What tears of blood! what groans and sighs!
 What sounds of woe, and dire despair!

How long, O Lord, how long before
 Thou'lt break the cruel bands apart,
 That bind the slave in bondage down,
 And crush his aching, broken heart?

O! when wilt thou arise for these,
 Thy suffering, abject, out-cast poor,
 And break the yoke, and bid them wear
 The tyrant's galling chains no more?

Haste! haste, O Lord, avenge their wrongs!
 And let the bleeding captives free;
 To every fettered slave proclaim
 A happy, joyous jubilee.

On 9th mo. 24, 1829, Moses Lancaster gave a Power of Attorney to his son, Moses Lancaster Jr., of Northern Liberties, Philadelphia, to sell and convey three acres of land in Richland Township, purchased of Paul Freed, April 9, 1785, and 'also to sell his stock, farm utensils, household goods, kitchen furniture, and convert all his personal estate into money, and with the proceeds thereof to pay his just debts, etc., and to invest the net remainder thereof at interest for the support and maintenance of the said Moses Sr. during his natural life. Moses Jr. to be accountable to the Executors and Administrators of his said father for the faithful execution of said trust.'

On October 5, 1849, Moses Lancaster Sr., of Milford Township, by his attorney, Moses Lancaster Jr., of Northern Liberties, conveyed the above mentioned three acres of land to Christian Bertles,

The death of Rachel, wife of Moses Lancaster Sr., was probably the cause of the sale of the above property.

XXIV.

The McCarty family is probably descended from the ancient family of MacCarthy, which was the dominant family in Desmond, or South Munster, Ireland, from the period of the establishment of surnames down to the reign of Henry VIII. They derive their descent and surname from Carthach, son of Suorbhrechthach or Justin, who was born in 969 A. D. The name is modernized as McCarty, McCartie, MacCartney, Carty, etc.

According to family tradition, Silas McCarty left Scotland, when about fourteen years old, with his brother Roland, and settled in Ireland for a few years. They afterwards emigrated to America. Roland settled in New Jersey, and Silas settled in Pennsylvania.

On an old map of Bucks Co., Pa., dated March 11, 1724, Silas McCarty is represented as the owner of a tract of land in the southwestern part of Plumstead Township, near the Buckingham line.

On March 3, 1738, John Thomas and Richard Penn, conveyed to him 215 acres of land in Haycock Township. He gave one acre of this tract to William Bryan, Isaac Evans, and others, in trust, for the use of the Baptist Congregation at New Britain, upon which to erect a church and also to be used as a burying ground.

The old log church has been gone many years. Silas McCarty, and Sarah, his wife, are probably buried in the graveyard, although the names on the stones have become obliterated, which renders the fact uncertain. The records of the New Britain Baptist church show that Sarah McCarty united with the congregation, "July ye 16th, 1755." Silas died in April, 1750. His son, Carroll McCarty, and Robert Thompkins, were the executors of his will, and Carroll became the owner of the farm. The children of Silas and Sarah McCarty were: James, born Jan. 1, 1725; Silas, born June 16, 1727; Carroll, born Sept. 15, 1729; Benjamin, born Oct. 5, 1731; Lydia, born Oct. 11, 1733; Elizabeth, born Oct. 30, 1735; Hannah, born Dec. 6, 1737; William, born Feb. 29, 1739; Thomas, born April 12, 1741, (married Elizabeth Lancaster); Peter, born Nov. 13, 1742; and Paul, born April 29, 1744.

WILL OF THOMAS MCCARTY.

In the name of God, Amen,

I, Thomas McCarty, of Muncy Creek Township, in the County of Lycoming, and state of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, considering the uncertainty of the moral life, and being of sound memory and perfect mind; blessed be Almighty God for the same. Do make and publish this my last will and testament, in manner and form following, that is to say:

First I direct that all my funeral expenses and all my just and honest debts be paid by my executors.

Secondly I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Elizabeth McCarty, one room down-stairs and two up, with their usual furniture and bedding, and such privileges of the use of the house and cellar as may be necessary, with six cows well kept, one horse fit for my said wife to ride, with sufficient of bread and meat, of the best kind, she to have the rooms in the house where I now live and creatures kept on the same premises, on that part which I shall bequeath to my son Job and he is to pay her six pounds per year as long as she may live. All these emoluments and privileges to be for the use of my said wife and such of my daughters as may continue unmarried and continue to live with their mother. But if my said wife should marry, then my will is, that she shall quit the premises, taking with her the furniture of one room, one cow, and one riding beast, and to have six pounds per year paid her by Job. All the above to be taken and considered in lieu of dower.

Thirdly I give and bequeath to my daughters Phebe and Mary each of them a good eight day clock with a neat case.

Fourthly I give and bequeath to my daughter Sarah, twenty dollars, and to my grand-son Samuel Foulke, twenty dollars, and my grand-son Thomas Foulke, twenty dollars, to be paid by my executors within ten years after my decease.

Fifthly I give and bequeath to my son Samuel McCarty fifty acres of land be the same more or less, it being the same on which his black-smith shop now stands, to him and his heirs in fee.

Sixthly I give and bequeath to my son Silas two hundred and fifty pounds, to be paid to him by my executors within three years after my decease; what money I am in due my son Silas to be included in the above mentioned sum.

Seventhly I give and bequeath to my two sons John and Thomas, forty acres of land to them and their legal issue as tenants in common, but for want of legal issue, or if one of them should die without issue then and in that case they are to be considered as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, to include the mills with their appurtenances, to join an improvement made by my son Joel, and the widow Robb's lands, each long line to join the creek for which they shall pay my executors seven-hundred pound in manner following, to-wit: One hundred per year for each five years next after my decease, then the remaining two-hundred pounds to be divided into five yearly annual payments, the last payment to be made ten years after my decease.

Eighthly I give and bequeath to my son Joel one hundred pounds to be paid to him by my executors in manner following to-wit, twenty-five pounds one year after my decease, and the remainder in three equal annual payments the last payment to be paid four years after my decease.

Ninthly I give and bequeath to my son Benjamin twenty-five acres of land to include the improvements made by Joel; the lines to remain as they are now run, to him and his heirs in fee for which he must pay my executors forty pounds five years after my decease and have possession of the house and one-half of the land immediately after my decease, and of the other half two years after-wards.

Tenthly I give and bequeath to my son James two-hundred pounds to be paid to him by my executors in manner following to-wit, fifty pounds two years after my decease, and the remainder at twenty-five pounds per year until paid, the last payment to be made eight years after my decease.

Eleventhly I give and bequeath unto my sons David and Jesse fifty acres of land in the forks of the creek to be held by them in the same manner I have directed John and Thomas to hold their's and David and Jesse to pay nothing, and Job to give them two good cows and a horse between them when they may stand in need of them.

Twelfthly I give and bequeath to my five daughters that now live with me to-wit, Jane, Elizabeth, Hannah, Martha, and Lydia; sixty pounds apiece to be paid to them within ten years after my decease, and my daughter Jane ten years after my decease to have the clock now in my house.

And it is further my will and I direct that my son Job shall give each of his sisters last named, immediately after the death of their mother, one cow, two sheep, a good bed and bedding, a low priced pair or case of drawers, three chairs, and one breakfast table each, and if my daughters remain single and unmarried, Job is to find seed and sow them one acre of flax every year, and if some of them marry, the rest to have in proportion, and find them house-room and fire-wood, and if it should not suit Job to have them in the house with him he shall build them a good convenient house, between the mills and barn, plant them an orchard of one hundred apples trees, opposite the east end of the barn, the house to be on the same side of the road, and find them sufficient of good fire-wood ready prepared for the fire and laid at the door; and give them the wool of two sheep yearly each of them and prepare them a garden well manured and keep it so and keep each of them a cow as he kept his own both winter and summer as long as they remain single and unmarried.

And lastly I give and bequeath to my son Job all the residue of my estate, both real and personal, of whatsoever sort or kind it may be, or wheresoever it may be, he complying with the above and before mentioned terms of this my last will and testament:— and paying to my executors the sum of six-hundred and fifty pounds in manner following, the said sum to be divided in ten yearly payments or parts, the first part or payment to be made one year after my decease, and the last, ten years from the time of my decease.

And further it is my will and I hereby direct that Job shall have his grain ground at the mill left to John and Thomas toll free during the life of his mother, and after that, only what he may want ground for the use of his family.

And further it is my will and I direct that if my children or any of them shall make any charge or demand for any time they have lived with me after they were of age, that the same shall be deducted out of what I have given them by this my will. And if there should remain any money in the hands of my executors after paying my debts and legacies as before directed they shall pay the same to Job.

And I hereby appoint my son John McCarty, and William McCarty jointly my sole executors of this my last will and testament

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the fifth day of the seventh month 1803.

THOMAS McCARTY.
